POT ROASTING

There's nothing like a stockpot filled with beef in broth, wine or another liquid gently simmering on the stove to evoke the comforts of home. The result of this slow cooking method is tender beef that melts in your mouth and warms you through and through.

Braising: Large cuts of beef such as a roast or brisket with a small amount of liquid.

BEEF FOR STEW

3 Easy Steps to Braising & Stewing

Step 1: Slowly brown beef on all sides in small amount of oil in heavy pan over medium heat. Pour off drippings. Season beef, if desired.

Step 2: Add liquid, such as broth, water, juice, beer and/or wine, to pan. Add herbs or seasonings, as desired. Bring to a boil; reduce heat.

Step 3: Cover tightly and simmer gently over low heat on top of the range, or in a preheated 325°F oven, according to timetable or until beef is fork-tender.
